A RAIN OF LESSON FOR AMLOK

by Emmanuel S. Cariño

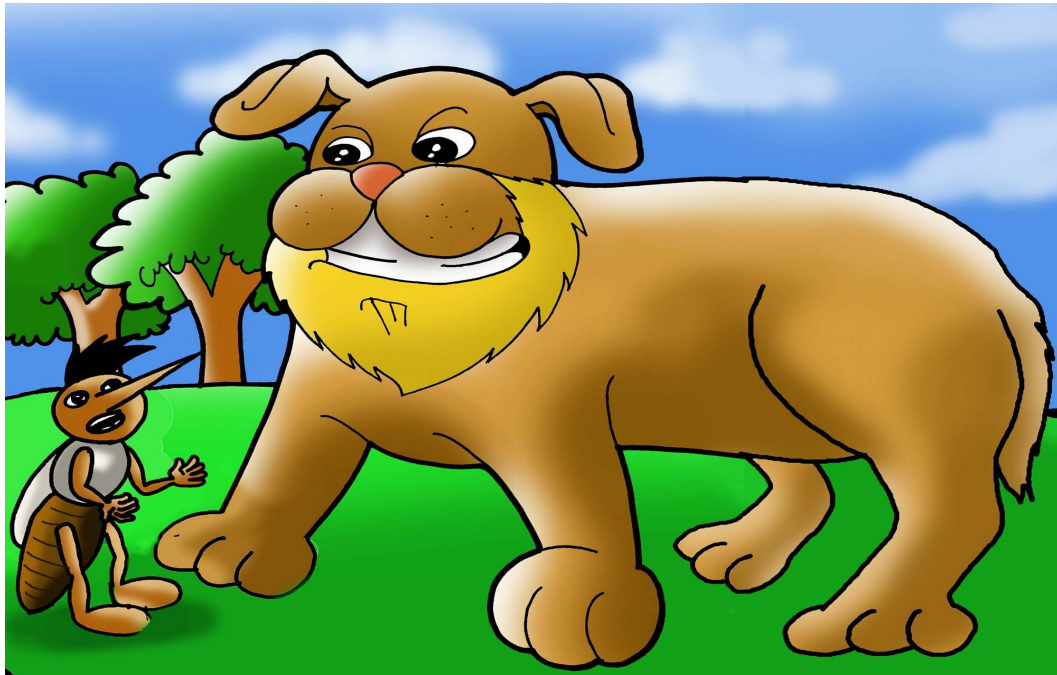

In a small town, there stood a small hut with a little insect, Amlok holding a nut. He wanted to have that mestizo look and be like the one he saw from the book.

As Boboy the pig "ngork...ngork..." was asleep, He asked how to have a white color that is skin deep. He was just snubbed and shoed by the pig for being too unwelcoming in his place for a gig.

"Arf...arf...arf...arf...!" that's what he heard.
He saw Asoro, the dog with a golden beard.
He asked how to have a golden color for his wings,
but was ignored for during the bayanihan , he had a mood swing.

He turned his back and went out of sight,
"Kok-korokooooook!" hearing the old rooster with delight.
"How can I help you Amlok?" he asked as he stayed on the branch.
"Help me become mestizo and don't just stay at the ranch!"

Having no respect, he wasn't helped,
so he flew to the meadow and took a rest.

There, he saw the butterflies' feast and guests, thinking on what he could do to look good at his best.

Then, he suddenly thought of putting his great idea to a test.

He hurriedly rolled his body on the wings of a white butterfly,
and saw his body turned so white .

Then he scratched his wings on the golden butterfly, which made his wings shine like a gold in that site.

He started boasting for his new look at that,
and told his neighbors he looked better, no matter what.

Amlok having loved himself too much,
saw the clouds turned dark and the rain poured as such,
showing his real looks in just a snap.

Laughed at by his neighbors, he felt ashamed
looking so sad as if he was tamed.
He changed his ways and asked for forgiveness,
and lived with his friends with lasting happiness.

SYNOPSIS

The story in this Self Learning Kit as expressed through a poem is entitled “A Rain of Lesson for Amlok”. It is about a mosquito who wished to have a mestizo look . Having the desire to change his looks, he asked help from his neighbors, Boboy, the pig, Asoro , the dog and Tandang, the old rooster on how he can have his desired looks. All of them refused to help Amlok because he was disrespectful, unhelpful and not too welcoming to his neighbors. Having been driven away , he flew into the meadow where he saw the butterflies flying around celebrating their feast. He had a great idea of rolling his body on the white butterfly to have that snowy-skin and had his wings be scratched on the golden butterfly to have shiny golden wings. Boasting with his friends about his new look, the rain poured down washing away his colors and revealing his true identity. He was laughed by his neighbors and after realizing his mistakes , he asked for their forgiveness. From then on, he changed and became contented of himself which made him live happily with his neighbors.

Being contented of what the Lord has blessed you and being kind to others are just some of the morals to be learned from the story. The Filipino values , culture and traditions are also included in this localized and contextualized story.
